Louis Flamand
Chief Investment Officer

Deep expertise in fund selection

A graduate of the École Nationale Supérieure des Arts et Métiers and King's College London, Louis has spent over 16 years working in the investment teams of Private Equity funds.

Louis Flamand began his career as a Senior Investment Officer for the Quartilium Fund of Funds at Groupama Private Equity, where he spent six years, before joining UBS Global Asset Management in London in 2013, where he co-led Private Equity fund selection for the group's global private banking offering outside the United States. In January 2015, he joined MetLife Investment Management as Head of Private Equity Investments and Co-Investments for Europe and Asia, overseeing a portfolio of approximately $5 billion.

Louis Flamand has served on supervisory boards at several international managers including CVC, Permira, Hg Capital, Bridgepoint, and Carlyle. He has also been a member of the LP Council and the Board of Invest Europe.

He joined Altaroc in 2023 as Chief Investment Officer. He is responsible for selecting the funds included in the Altaroc Odyssey Vintages, with the objective of identifying the best-performing funds to guarantee distributors and private investors a product of exceptional quality.
